

Patent Settlements

Antitrust Life Sciences and Healthcare Capabilities

Overview

A properly structured and considered patent settlement is key to ensuring that pharmaceutical and life sciences companies can continue to innovate and provide value to healthcare providers and consumers. Baker Botts is an industry leader in working with companies to evaluate and negotiate patent settlements for our clients. Our team also has a wealth of experience in litigation related to patent settlements, including reverse-settlement or “pay-for-delay” actions, as part of our overall support of the life cycle of new and generic drug products.

Representative Experience

- Generic pharmaceutical company in conducting risk analyses regarding potential reverse-settlement claims in connection with proposed settlement of Hatch-Waxman litigation.
- Brand pharmaceutical company in connection with government investigations of patent settlements.
- Brand pharmaceutical company in litigation concerning “no-AG” settlements.
